Shauney Lucas, an employee of the Whitesboro Parks and Recreation Department, was tragically killed in an automobile accident in October, 2010 at the age of 18. Shauney was an award-winning photographer who was just beginning her studies in Visual Arts / Photography. At the time of her death, she was a student at Grayson County College, and she planned to attend Texas Women's University.

Shauney won multiple awards for her work at the Loy Lake Photography Contests for high school students, including Grand Champion. Her greatest award was achieved in the showing at the Antoinette Westphal College of Media Arts and Design at Drexel University in Pennsylvania. There were over 2,300 photographs entered in 2007 from all over the country, and only 136 images were exhibited. Her work was displayed in their photography gallery from February 2 to March 1, 2008.

Shauney worked for the Whitesboro Parks and Recreation Department for 3 ½ years. PARD Director Penny Renfroe said of Shauney, "She was an amazingly gifted and loyal employee. She was an incredibly valuable and much-loved member of our team. She began working for the PARD as a summer camp worker and continued as a building supervisor, summer camp director, PARD photographer, and special events coordinator. She loved working with children, and children loved her! She used her talent as a photographer and was instrumental in the department's Community Art Shows."
